

Fantasy Demographics

The value is the number of people required to support a person of that profession. For smaller settlements the ratio between the population and the value represents a percentage change of that profession being present. For example for a village of 101 people there is a 50% chance that a Baker will be present. Population of 101 divided by 202 = .5 or 50%.

Thanks to S. John Ross for writing Medieval Demographics (<http://www.io.com/~sjohn/demog.htm>) which inspired me to go back to the original sources and do the research that went into this article. This article is based on the Paris Tax Roll of 1292 which can found at <http://heraldry.sca.org/laurel/names/parisbyname.html>. The list was originally found in Life of a Medieval City by Joseph and Francis Geis (Harper and Row, 1981).

The list in Medieval City was paraphrased and truncated from the original document. The values for each profession was computed by summing up all the practitioners and dividing that into 55,000.
